Sariwon City Plan

1. As a result of the NK reorganization of the NK administrative districts, Sariwon (Pre-RO) was promoted to the status of a city as the seat of the provincial government for Hwanghae-bukto.
2. Sariwon was completely destroyed during the Korean War. Following the Armistice, however, with the mobilization of the citizens of Sariwon and the Hwanghae-bukto Trust, schools, public institutions, official residences, means of transportations, bridges, enterprise stations, and factories have been restored or newly built, with the civilian residences reconstructed by the owners themselves.
3. The population of Sariwon has increased to 180,000 as compared with 80,000 prior to the Korean War, the cause of this increase being the mass immigration of farmers from the mountainous districts of Hamgyong-bukto, Chagang-do, and Kangwon-do, under Government plans, executed during the famine years in NK. The great majority of the citizens in Sariwon are farmers.
